

Red: areas where services are only running in one direction, with significantly extended journey times

Green arrows: This is the only direction services are running during the engineering work

Amber: areas where service levels are reduced with some increase in journey times

Black: areas where peak services will be retimed but no significant changes to frequency or journey times